Come Clean

The Partisans

I'd better leave now
It's gone too far I've hurt too deep
And I'm sure the wound will scar
And in the morning
All is not clear
I try to see through hazy eyes
All the thoughts I fear
What did I do?
What did I say?
I should have left you far away

The reason reason cannot be found
It hurts to think about times when I've been down
When I can think again
And I can see
The foolishness I hide in vain
Has not come clean
The seams have torn once more
I can't hold back I make a good excuse

To grip the feelings that I lack
If you could see yourself right now

What would you say?
And you want to preach a sermon

Every day,
You drink another drink see how you lie

It gives you courage and make you cry
The world I see reflects on me
Through my eyes my demise
