The Unspeakable

Aqueduct

Whenever I wake to see you wake, so near you
I get kind of tired just watching you perspire
Sleepy in the corner of your eye
I've lived my life so well

Whenever I hold my head up high I note
There's no sky under which I lie
So motionless at times
I get off on watching the seasons fly by
I've lived my life so well

But you've put me through hell
But it'll get better my love
You left your sweater hung up in my heart
But I'll get better

I've lived my life so well
Why don't you take off
Your thinly disguised emoting lies
Wash away my dear, all of my worst fears
I get eerie feelings when you're near
I've lived my life so well

But you've put me through hell
But I'll get better my love
You left your sweater hung up in my heart
But I'll get better

I've lived my life so well
