Look around you What do those faces tell you? Faces, joy and pain Faces, faces everywhere

Faces

All around different faces I see Some are happy, some in misery They express joy and pain

Now two faces are the same People, people all over town Some of them are poor and others wear a crown I've seen a lot of many faces

Joy and pain in different places Open your mind, set yourself free Figure it out, what could it be? Sympatise, understand

Give love and peace to the other fellow man Faces
Faces, joy and pain
Look around you

Do you see the faces?
What do those faces tell you?
Everywhere I go, different faces I see
Faces

All around different faces I see Some are happy, some in misery They express joy and pain Now two faces are the same

Playing with your life, playing with your soul You all scream out "I'm the one in control" Killing of the colors, silly stupid games You know who you are without no names

Don't mess the world 'cause that the sequal Open your mind cause we talking about the people In the world, all kind of places Different races, different faces

Different faces
Everywhere
Faces
All around different faces I see

Some are happy, some in misery They express joy and pain Now two faces are the same
