There will come a time
When I no longer am
I will take my last breath
And on that day
I'll be dying

At that time will I feel at ease Will I dream and be at peace These are things that no one knows Come on help me now

Why must I think of this until I find Peace and quiet in the clouding of my mind There are times but I never come around I can tell things are getting ok now

What if there is no ending Turn from where we've been To a place where all we can see is Light pouring in

Am I really all that far
Far removed from that ending part
Or just a little closer to
The galaxy's misty heart

Why must I think of this until I find Peace and quiet in the clouding of my mind There are times but I never come around I can tell things are getting ok now

Why must I think of this until I find Peace and quiet in the clouding of my mind There are times but I never come around I can tell things are getting ok now
