Syntax Error

I know I should have stopped it Any other day I'd know better but Now I'm laid out on the floor I know I kinda dropped it Should have written it down in a letter But now there's one foot out the door

All the words in disarray Lost in translation Errors just replayed

I didn't know it was like that Left field and way off from center And now there's just one great divide There's no doubt, wait, strike that Off conversation is splintered Oh well Oh hell at least I tried

All the thoughts I can't relay Have no explanation Prefix just displayed

Spell check Streamline Clarified Cut copied pasted And erased it But I replaced it Outline Researched Summarized Paraphrased refrained And then deleted Now I'm defeated

Good intention's gone astray Locked in frustration Thought lines in decay