A Lot Like Birds

Oh won't you come to me?
I wanna feel your body gasping, wanna listen to you breathe
Oh won't you come to me?
I wanna feel you wrap around me, wanna drag you down with me

Tear the color from the walls, drink the life from every painting, do the things we're told are not allowed Tear your jewelry so it falls, hear the pearls and diamonds faintly Hear them shaking, hear them shatter as we come

To salt turn the envious, let them
To blood they will melt if they look in our eyes
Watch the chains from the ceilings fall to the floor and garnish
your thighs

Oh won't you come to me?
I wanna feel your body gasping, wanna listen to you breathe
Oh won't you come to me?
I wanna feel you wrap around me, wanna drag you down with me

Put a leash on every neck, pull them closer to our bodies, tell the crowd they need to settle down

Put the rumors all to rest, show the world though we speak softly

What we carry, oh it won't stay buried long

To salt turn the envious, let them
Watch the chains from the ceilings fall to the floor and garnish
your thighs

Oh won't you come to me?

I'll do whatever you want me to, whatever you need me to, I'll follow I'll do whatever you want me to, whatever you need me to You'll do whatever I want you to, whatever I ask of you, I'll lead you You'll do whatever I want you to, whatever I ask of you

It tears at me constantly - to bite at the dirt instead of your throat
I'm here where you wanted me - inside of your heart and further
