Yo, I almost cried writing this shit yo

We met at college for the culinary arts First time I saw that ass, boo, it swallowed up my heart, damn Plus you were gorgeous, I played it cool though Slipped me the number told me utilize it Only thing I thought about was your pussy, how I'ma brutalize i Size six in the sneakers, smoking reefer Was the daily routine, gave her call one day Told me meet you up at forty deuce, I didn't hesitate to say 'y es' Threw on the sweatsuit, hopped in the Beamer Top down, twenty below, she gave me butterflies Had her father light complexion and her mother's eyes Thunder thighs, I'm trying to make some babies with her We grew closer, connected at the hip She started flipping over little shit Became a bigger problem, and she pregnant, what I'ma do? I went the coward route - what a fucking jerk I hated myself for years and thought I made up All the pent up anger in a while, and tell me straight up Do you love me? Then what's the next step? It's either 'yes' or 'no' before you take your next breath Remember the days you held me on your chest? I listened to your heart, gentle kisses on your breast You said I was your king, or was it just a show? But we don't even talk, so I guess I'll never know How does a love so strong just fall to pieces?

I miss you so much, fucking bitch
I'll fucking kill you, but I love you
I just want to kiss you one more time

And plus I loved you, bitch fuck you

I believe in science and she believe in Jesus

Yo, what the fuck boo? I fucking lust you