Ador Dorath

I have entered the Universe Its silence goes to all directions Endlessly far I am alone at the zero point

My salvation from chaos of the other worlds Worlds without stars, galaxies and beings Space where there is nothing only"myself"

My faith is my truth And then I can savor Sunshine and the blue sky Savor the reality of being the man Of this planet

The journey to the depths of my own knowledge Wandering among atoms, cells and organs That make what I call "myself"

I have been wandering in my brain And I have been watching neurons With my heart I have been watching its pulse With my blood I have perceived its movement

I have realized how much emptiness There exist in me How vast are the energies Of my own body I have felt deep respect to What I bear And I am
