How does the time slip by so fast Why can't it once stand still For us this night, will always last With every breath until And if you find you're all alone Remember you have wings

As long as there is air to breathe And music left unsung
You know that in the darkest night
A dawn has just begun
So think of us, we'll think of you
Together we'll take flight
For we shall never say goodbye
We only say goodnight
For we shall never say goodbye
We only say goodnight
