Stars in Your Eyes

Air Supply

We are civilized and free from all confusion And yet we always worry for the things that we can't see But now to give your love away, a miracle in motion You know what seems invisible will never ever be disguised to m e

I start to lose control I start to lose control

I know I will remember for longer than forever All the love and the stars in your eyes Until my arms surround you and I build the world around you All I see are stars in your eyes

First you hear the angels sing and then you see the wedding rin g Shining as the threads of life so secretly are woven You know what you've found, you want to last forever Your heart has found its wings and left for never never

And then I lose control I start to lose control

I know I will remember for longer than forever All the love and the stars in your eyes Until my arms surround you and I build the world around you All I see are stars in your eyes

I know I will remember for longer than forever All the love and the stars in your eyes

I know I will remember for longer than forever All the love and the stars in your eyes Until my arms surround you and I build the world around you All I see are stars in your eyes
