

Goodbye

Airfare

Oh when the sun comes up tomorrow my heart is heavy, my bones are hollow
I try to breath but my breath comes shallow
Where are you at my little chickadee?
Where are you now when you should be here next to me?
You left without a trace, now I don't see your face no more no

She never said goodbye, she never said
I miss the life, the life we used to live now it's dawn and you're nowhere to be found not a soul in the house and I ain't makin' no sound I try to talk it through, you know that nothing comes out you're not around, love, I just can't figure it out Where are you at my little chickadee?

Where are you now when you should be here next to me?
You left without a trace, now I don't see your face no more no

I miss the life, the life we used to live

oh oh oh oh

She never said goodbye, she never said
I miss the life, the life we used to live
