

The End of the Line

Al Martino

Where do you go
When there's nowhere to go,
And you don't wanna be where you are?
Where do you run
When there's no room to run,
And you've already run too far?

What good is love
When you offer your love,
But nobody wants to buy?
Why do I cry?
Why am I wondering why?

What can you say
When there's so much to say,
But nobody listens to you?
What good are dreams
If they're no more than dreams
That don't have a chance to come true?

What can you do
When nothing you do
Will ease your troubled mind?
And where do you go
When you come to the end of the line?

What can you say
When there's so much to say,
But nobody, nobody listens to you?
What good are dreams
If they're no more than dreams
That don't have a chance to come true?

What can you do
When nothing you do
Will ease your troubled mind?
And where do you go
When you come to the end of the line?
