

Divide

All That Remains

Another sleepless night, another day just washed away so you count your scars, hoping for a new day
I know you have the strength to pull through, the lengths I've seen you go to
So, break away and look for something new

It's so far away, yeah

Divide yourself from what you used to be
Gather your integrity
It's not a loss
You count the people you can trust

Divide, and show the world what strength can be
Live your life in honesty
It's not a loss
You count the people you can trust, divide

You've made your mind up right, but you're the one thing in your way
So, come on, cross that line, or this will never go away
I know you have the strength to pull through, the lengths I've seen you go to
So, break away and look for something new

It's not far away, yeah

Divide yourself from what you used to be
Gather your integrity
It's not a loss
You count the people you can trust

Divide, and show the world what strength can be
Live your life in honesty
It's not a loss
You count the people you can trust, divide

Another setback, another let down
I see you're on the verge of changing things tonight
So, no excuses, so, stop holding yourself back You're wasting life, just let go and

Divide yourself from what you used to be
Gather your integrity
It's not a loss
You count the people you can trust