

Hours of Simplicity

Amoral

We lean towards the earlier hours
Hours of simplicity
We shun away from all which devours
Devours precious memories

For all I know, our past must show

All our worries once were temporary
The need for expression, with all else secondary
Our knowledge equals guess
When we're content with less
All our worries forever temporary

I know this one will slim down my chances
And so I'll have it be
I'll step in front of the chariots of progress
And let the weight revive me

For all I know, our past must show

All our worries once were temporary
The need for expression, with all else secondary
Our knowledge equals guess
When we're content with less
All our worries forever temporary

All our worries once were temporary
The need for expression, with all else secondary
Our knowledge equals guess
When we're content with less

All our worries once were temporary
The need for expression, makes all else secondary
All knowledge equals guess
We were content with less