

Red Eye

Andy Grammer

I lost perspective of who I was I hit the wall
I knew that it would take a lot but it took it all
No you don't come this far just turn around covered too many miles
No you don't get this close to breaking now, just to close your eyes

While the world sleeps under my feet tonight
I'm chasing myself in the sky
While the world sleeps under my feet tonight
I'll be up here learning to fly
When you know what you're killing for
When you already know
It's sure to hurt but it worth every burn
Cuz one day you'll be home
Till it feels like I, I am always on the red eye

This time around its not even about getting paid
I'm just an addict for the moment when the magic is made
But when you are who you really are it can put you through hell
Just spend a day in the skin that you want to live in to see how it f eels
While the world sleeps under my feet tonight
I'm chasing myself in the sky

While the world sleeps under my feet tonight
I'll be up here learning to fly
When you know what you're killing for
When you already know
It's sure to hurt but it worth every burn
Cuz one day you'll be home
Till it feels like I, I am always on the red eye

It feels like I, I am always on the red eye
Finding myself these days looking down from the window saying
I'm counting lines on how just when I should just be counting sheep
Through days when I can't complain, do it over and over again
And over again

While the world sleeps under my feet tonight
I'm chasing myself in the sky
While the world sleeps under my feet tonight
I'll be up here learning to fly
While the world sleeps under my feet tonight
I'm chasing myself in the sky
While the world sleeps under my feet tonight
I'll be up here learning to fly
When you already know
It's sure to hurt but it worth every burn
Cuz one day you'll be home
Till it feels like I, I am always on the red eye
It feels like I, I am always on the red eye