

Whispers

Anna Graceman

Sitting all alone, waiting for you my dear
Wishing, I was anywhere, but here
Silence fills the air
Wishing, that I really didn't care
Voices surround me
Telling me something
That I'm nothing

Whispers fill my ears
My eyes, are filled with salty tears
Why does the world, feel so dead tonight
It feels like my heart and my mind, are having a fight
Whispers

Watching you walk away, then you disappear
My heart is filled with doubt, a dream that's filled with fear
No one seems to see
I'm angry my mind's played tricks on me
Voices surround me
Telling me, "give up."
Not good enough

Whispers fill my ears
My eyes are filled with salty tears
Why does the world, feel so dead tonight
It feels like my heart and my mind are having a fight
Whispers

Falling down a rabbit hole
Dark and scary Alice knows
I'll let those words run away with me
And they may set me free
But until then

Whispers fill my ears
My eyes are filled with salty tears
Why does the world, feel so dead tonight
It feels like my heart and my mind, are having a fight
Whispers