One To Blame

Anna Ternheim

Voices hard and hollow Colder than I ever was before I'm leaving you pieces Of love to come for more

You always find me miles from where I said you must let go
Or nothing sounds convincing
To the one you can't say no

Who could possibly save Save us from madness Love is the common name Again, we depend On the one to blame

It's bittersweet to swallow
Kindness as a consequence of guilt
So gather up the pieces of your last and dying will
And prepare yourself to live with whatever follows pain

Who could possibly save Save us from madness Love is the common name Again, we depend On the to blame