Laying down beside a pool staring down inside
I was taken to a place somewhere new to hide at first the scene was strange and blue then ghostly voices that I knew a bed, a voice, a woman cried a child a boy, a light inside this my dream for all those years turned into my deepest fears despite the love I longed for I fell into a pool of tears

[Chorus:]

Water swirling round my head falling through my eyes
I see the woman on the bed calling deep inside calling out what might have been all those moments never seen all the grief flowed down the years to a pool of tears

All those people didn't see nothing else to do empty space around me no one ever knew the ground beneath my feet fell through then music echoed thoughts of you the chance you took to steal my pride the pain, the joy the love that died this my dream for all those years turned into my deepest fears despited the love I longed for I fell into a pool of tears

[Chorus 2x]

Water swirling round my head falling through my eyes
I see the woman on the bed calling deep inside calling out what might have been all those moments never seen all the grief flowed down the years to a pool of tears
