

Song

Avail

Do you remember when we met I was so intrigued you were so intrigued we spent our time telling our sides of our excitement of insecurities

Moving far away

And from that moment on we were inseparable a vivid image of ecstasy it's been a long time and things I see well they remind me they take me to that age

Moving far away moving far away in time

But everyday that goes by your further from my mind try to remember

Lies

I know I treasure things too much instead of pushing them aside still I tell lies try to turn around and face it