

Are We Losing Touch

B.J. Thomas

Your eyes are distant
Shining in the light
I wonder where you are tonight
Haven't heard a word I said
What's inside your head
I never thought you were dreaming
Or is it there's so much between us

Are we losing touch
Drifting far away
Have we changed so much
That we can't find our way
Through that door
Anymore

Let's stop pretending
And lay it on the line
There's no telling what we'll find
What's it all about
Can we work it out
When we closed our eyes
Did it slip away
Or maybe tomorrow seems so far today

Are we losing touch
Drifting far away
Have we changed so much
That we can't find our way
Through that door
Anymore

Let me know
Let's be sure

Are we too far off this base
To turn around
And find the pieces that are scattered on the ground
Where are we now
Where are we headed for
Whats happening to you and I
I'd like to know

Are we losing touch
Are we losing touch
Are we losing touch
Are we losing touch
Are we losing touch
Are we losing touch
Are we losing touch
