

Things That Make You Stay

Baby Animals

Your words dripped down on me
Like the acid from a battery
Burning holes in our family, lie, lie, lies

But oh, your not the only one to blame
I did promise to change my name
And I admit I'm not the same
I once was

Things that make you stay
In slow motion fall away
All the burden all the blame
Your hand's pointing at me again
It's all your point of view, your point of view
Your point of view, your point of view

When will this charade end
Bad acting and pretending
Because it's a neverending curtain call

But I am never one to shy away
I take your message home today
And leave no trace or make you pay

I won't make you pay

Things that make you stay
In slow motion fall away
All the burden all the blame
Your hand's pointing at me again
It's all your point of view, your point of view
Your point of view, your point of view, view, view

But it will not be only one to blame
I did promise to change my name
And I admit I'm not the same
I once was

Things that make you stay
In slow motion fall away
All the burden all the blame
Your hand's pointing at me again
It's all your point of view, your point of view
Your point of view, ooh, view, view
