Glass

Bat for Lashes

I will rise now And go about the city In the street's broadways I seek Him whom my soul loveth

Went over the sea What did I find A thousand crystal towers A hundred emerald cities And the hand of the watchman In the night sky Points to my beloved A knight in crystal armour

And I tried to hold him I tried for the creed I'll make a suit of colours To stop the blinding mirrors Sew a cape of red and gold Stifled up the beam With the perfect armour With a perfect dream

To be made of glass When two suns are shining The battle becomes blinding To be made of glass But we ride tonight, tonight, we ride

And with two suns spinning At two different speeds Was born a hot, white diamond Burning through the rainbow Flames fell into orbit To hold eternally Two heavenly spirits That just wouldn't seem

To be made of glass When two suns are shining The battle becomes blinding To be made of glass But we ride tonight, tonight, tonight, we ride