Father who are in the sky
Hold thy hand above me
Mighty is the raging waves
On which I ride

Mother who awaits me ashore Let your golden hair down It will shine and guide me Through the (raging) storm

Heading north after long a journey We have sailed for so very long Heavy seas endless sky above us Heading north going home

Brother who fell in foreign land Blessed thy soul a warriors Living on through your sword Now in my hand

Sister who for my return sings Shed no more tears for my well I can hear your voice clear now In the wind

Heading north after long a journey We have sailed for so very long Heavy seas endless sky above us Heading north going home

Heading north after long a journey We have sailed for so very long Heavy seas endless sky above us Heading north going home

Heading north after long a journey We have sailed for so very long Heavy seas endless sky above us Heading north going home

Heading north after long a journey We have sailed for so very long Heavy seas endless sky above us Heading north going home
