

Another Day, Another Night

Belle and Sebastian

Another day, another night
I spend my life not thinking about you
Another birth, another life
Another world where nobody breathes your name

Another day, another night
Another lifetime thinking about you
See every mark, turn on the light
A dozen summers weathered my face but

I, forget about the trouble you might've been in
I'm here, still shedding the same skin
Still shedding the same skin