Epic Travel

Beto Vázquez Infinity

I am in this journey, but it's the last one
I must find my truth lying deep in the unknown
I move through many worlds with steps that devour the distances to find myself

History holds my last rites and regards. Without regret, I go to the inner rings that hold the cards Dimensions of the errant souls they show us their destiny

While the wind trembles to remove the damned souls that I take inside

I discovered a dreamed universe in brilliant manifestations of light images and perfect romanticism
I must continue my epic travel and find myself

Elements lost in their world...we vent our passions We dance ethereal, the compass of the imagined

Transcended and enlightened recreated on this journey with beautiful letters of passionate words I found my way I found my truth I found the truth