

North of No South

Biffy Clyro

Southless

There's nothing below, up above us is only

Darkness

I poke at my eyes just to prove they're no longer

Worthless

And all I see is black, all I see is black

Blinded

There's no brightness comin' back

No brightness comin' back

Have you ever been a place

From which you couldn't leave?

But of course you couldn't stay?

Can you feel it?

I gave it all, you could take it or leave it

You stick around just to blame it on someone else

You had a choice, and you chose to believe it

Now your north has gone out west

Northless

There's nothing above us, below us are only

Corpses

They're glass-eyed and stuffed with suspicions, but constantly

Muted

They've finally found a home, they've finally found a home

In heaven

But who knows where they're going?

Yeah, who knows where they're going?

Have you ever been a place

In which you couldn't breathe?

But of course you couldn't say?

Can you feel it?

I gave it all, you could take it or leave it

You stick around just to blame it on someone else

You had a choice, and you chose to believe it

Now your north has gone out west

We've found our true north

But our head's in your mouth

We know what we're worth

Now we've removed the shroud

Can you feel it?

I gave it all, you could take it or leave it

You stick around just to blame it on someone else

You had a choice, and you chose to believe it

Now your north has gone out west