

Come A Little Closer ... Now Come!

Big Sugar

I'm asking you tonight, to step into the moonlight, the better to see ya all the stars that heard the sound gathered 'round, 'cause they all wanna be ya all the bells that ring, and all the birds that sing are singin g out for ya and every breeze that blows, when it blows ya, seems to adore y a (where'd you' come from)

just come a little closer now

i put this rose, under your pretty nose and all the other roses got jealous sayin' "what a shame, we don't even know your name, please tell us" i suppose you'll never disclose, what you're hiding from view but if your open, love will find its way into you and if you need some, you know that i got some

just come a little closer, now come

now all the clocks, put their hands together and stop, just to watch you walk past

just come a little closer now
just come a little closer now
just come a little closer now
