

Judged

Billy Talent

Goddamned motherfucker with that old-world plan
I swear some day, we'll be rid of your Klan
Your hateful rhetoric is so care-free
Why can't you see what it feels like to be

Judged!
For being born in your skin
Judged!
For love that they call a sin
Judged!
Because you're different to them
Profiled, defiled, tired of being
Judged!
For using your right to choose
Judged!
Before you walk in the room
Judged!
Yeah we're the ones you refused
Profiled, defiled, tired of being judged

Don't lose your voice, don't live without choice
Their minds are set to divide and destroy
You're still pretending it's the land of the free
If you can't see what it feels like to be

Judged!
For being born in your skin
Judged!
For love that they call a sin
Judged!
Because you're different to them
Profiled, defiled, tired of being
Judged!
For using your right to choose
Judged!
Before you walk in the room
Judged!
Yeah we're the ones you refused
Profiled, defiled, tired of being judged

We're just trying to open
The doors you shut!
Your logic's so broken
And out of touch!
You think we don't matter?
Well, we won't give up!
'Cause it'll all be shattered
The day you've been

Judged!
For being born in your skin
Judged!
For love that they call a sin
Judged!
Because you're different to them
Profiled, defiled, tired of being
Judged!

For using your right to choose
Judged!
Before you walk in the room
Judged!
They throw the salt in the wound
Profiled, defiled, tired of being judged
