

Heart Starts Beating

Blake Lewis

Green light by the riverside
Two silhouettes traced by the moon
I see the city shimmer starry eyed
As we float down the avenue

Never could have imagined this moment without you
Simply surrender

I gave up looking for new love
Cause I knew love that looked nothing like this
Waking me, suddenly and I feel my heart start beating

Sun melts the horizon
Diamonds dance across shore
Searched for you about a million times
But never used my heart before

Never could have imagined this moment without you
Simply surrender

I gave up looking for new love
I never knew love could look quite like this
Waking me, shaking me
'Til I feel my heart start beating

I wasn't looking for new love
Cause I thought love was much harder than this Everyday, a new start, and suddenly my heart is beating
Heart start beating, heart start beating, heart start beating
And I feel my heart start beating

I gave up looking for new love
Cause I knew love that looked nothing like this
Waking me, suddenly and I feel my heart start beating
