

For All to See

Bleed from Within

We see maps of distress, as the fires continue to spread
Awaken the crimson light, for all to see

We are the face of arrogance without a voice
In denial of the truth, we had a choice
A wave of fists aimed at all in our sight
There's nowhere to run, nowhere to hide

Viral hysteria, no emotion attached
The thoughts of the culprit etched in the glass

For all to see
You will fall to your knees
And breathe in the fire that welcomes the new age
For all to see
Will you wait to be saved
For the taste of desire, this hunger will not set you free
For all to see

Protest, distress, nothing gained in the road to acclaim

Viral hysteria, no emotion attached
The thoughts of the culprit etched in the glass

We will not lose hope
We won't give up
Facing the hell that we made

For all to see
You will fall to your knees
And breathe in the fire that welcomes the new age
For all to see
Will you wait to be saved
For the taste of desire, this hunger will not set you free

Awaken the crimson light
The pulse of existence tears holes in the night
Slaves to greed, resistant to fight
Nowhere to hide
The battle lines that circumscribe draw too close together
A wind where only flames reside

We are the face of arrogance without a voice
In denial of the truth, we made a choice

For all to see
