1992

Going into business An agreement of your bombast You'd love my bed You took the other instead But don't you feel low I was being oblique And you'd love my bed You got the other instead

What do you owe me? The price of your piece of mind You'd love my bed You took the other instead