Wildfire

Bob Seger

With a full moon rising high on a wind-swept summer night Me and the boys in the band were out cruisin', we were feeling all right I really had no high hopes, I had no expectations at all We were walking into this crowded bar in a little lakeside town way up north Local girls all buzzed around but I only wanted to pass them by Then I caught a look and a smile from this girl with the light blue eyes And I could not look away Stood there, frozen in my tracks, I felt I'd been thunderstruck I asked the only local guy I met if he knew her, he said I was in luck He brought me over to a table and she shyly shook my hand I knew right then, oh, I knew right then I felt a warmth deep down inside Sparks were beginning to fly Felt my temperature rising high She was moving through me Just like wildfire She was shooting right through me Shooting through my heart like wildfire Wildfire, wildfire And I could not look away Each and every night of my life I'm gonna thank my lucky stars Every night I'm gonna thank my stars I walked into that bar 'Cause every night of my life when I hold her in my arms Every night, every night, oh every night I've got wildfire, I've got wildfire I've got wildfire, wildfire, wildfire Oh, every night, every night, oh, every night I've got wildfire
