

New Direction

Bodyjar

I took your photo off the wall
So I wouldn't notice you at all
I walked away and close the door
Not thinking of staying anymore

You're telling me it's over
But I don't know if it right
You're telling me it's dark outside
But I can see the light
If I can make it up to you

If I can't run away then I'll find a new direction
If I can't run away I will find you
If I can't run away then I'll find a new direction
What would you do? Bitterness is nothing new

I made a promise to myself
That I'd wouldn't go to you for help
I want the measures that you do
To keep me from running into you

And now I know it's over
But I still don't think it's right
Your telling me that it's dark outside
But I can see the light

If I can't run away then I'll find a new direction
Because I know if I stay, I'll confine you
If I can't run away and your name's too hard to mention
Right from the start we just build it then break it apart
Everything will come undone