Listen to the things you say About the things you don't understand Trying to be different, it's your fault you reprimand 'Cos I don't wanna be like you, I don't wanna look like you You've gotta fight for what you want, stand up for what you bel ieve A family at eighteen, the media call it normal So fuck this bloody system and don't be so formal