

Into Your Arms

Capital Kings

Said I'd follow you, said I'd follow you for the rest of my days
But the truth is I don't know where I let you go and lost my way

Said it would never happen then walked out the door yeah once again
Can't even start to imagine a life without you I can't understand
Can't believe I lost my way tell me that it's not too late
Gravity come do your thing cause I can't trust these broken wings no

I'm falling into your arms again, into your arms again
I'm falling to where it all began, where it all began
Call it my only shot, cause you're the only hope I got
No looking down I'm jumping off head first I'm falling
I'm falling into your arms again into your arms again

Breathing in new air, nothing can compare to a new sunrise
Back where I belong, in the comfort of your arms the future looks bright

Said it would never happen then walked out the door yeah once again
Can't even start to imagine a life without you I can't understand
Can't believe I lost my way tell me that it's not too late
Gravity come do your thing cause I can't trust these broken wings no

I'm falling into your arms again, into your arms again
I'm falling to where it all began, where it all began
Call it my only shot, cause you're the only hope I got
No looking down I'm jumping off head first I'm falling
I'm falling into your arms again into your arms again

Even when I slip and fall even when I drop the ball
Ya its you you're always there to wrap me in your arms
Even when I slip and fall you're with me through it all
Through it all I know you'll be there

I'm falling into your arms again, into your arms again
I'm falling to where it all began, where it all began
Call it my only shot, cause you're the only hope I got
No looking down I'm jumping off head first I'm falling
I'm falling into your arms again into your arms again
