Slow Motion Addict

Carina Round

Today I'm not present Footsteps disguised as wings Neither poison my brain With memories that tease and sting

Step out into the sun Let light into my eyes My feet don't touch the ground My head fills up the sky

Try to hold on Makes no difference There's no choice if you never had it Try to move on Makes no difference To a slow motion addict

I float through dreams like a helium balloon One trip and the morning comes too soon Try to hold it, try to hold it

My blood Carries the ghosts Like bulls filling the streets Like everything in this universe Is on it's way to me

Try to hold on Makes no difference There's no point if you never had it Try to move on Makes no difference To a slow motion addict

I float through dreams like a helium balloon One trip and the morning comes too soon Try to hold it, try to hold it