

Love Can

Carman

God made everybody different, giving each a special call,

There are some talents that he gave to you, that he did not give to me at all,

We all see the same horizon and feel the teardrop of the rain,

Together, we'll face the same tomorrow, but where the courage that we need to share the pain?

Without one thing it's all in vain.

But love can bring our worlds together, love can cause the boundaries to fade,

And love can help us like each other and love the only you that God has made.

God has children of all colours, all unique in their own way,

Using to all they have to serving the Lord, to light the shadows of the day,

But we still see the same horizon and we feel the teardrop of the rain,

Together, we'll face the same tomorrow, but where the courage that we need to share the pain?

Without one thing it's all in vain.

But love can bring our worlds together, love can cause the boundaries to fade,

And love can help us like each other and love the only you that God has made,

Love will bring our worlds together, love can cause every boundary to fade,

God's love can help us like each other and love the only you that God has made.

I know that love can,

I still believe love can,

I've seen how love can.
