Snow Queen

Carole King

High on a snow-covered mountain From her throne she looks down at the clowns Who think youth can be found in a fountain

High on the wings of her rhythms

She will smile at the guys who come on with their eyes

But she'll never dance with them

And in smoke-filled rooms of electric sound A legend is built around The Snow Queen

You may believe you're a winner
But with her you will soon bite the dust
And discover you're just a beginner

You may not think you're a loser
But in mid-air you'll be hung while you trip on your tongue
And it'll only amuse her

In the morning air you are frozen there Caught in the icy stare of The Snow Queen

No, my friend, she doesn't want what you're selling My friend, there must be a place you can hide And into the night you'll fade, knowing you lost the game And just how she got her name of The Snow Queen
