

End of the World

Cindy Morgan

I had a dream today
About the great earthquake
The sun went black
The moon turned red as love

Four horsemen riding by
As stars fell from the sky
No time to say goodbye to all I've known

No wars no rumors of war
No scandalous stories airing at five
No rush hour drive

Is that the end of the world
Is that the end of the world
Is that the end of the world
No No No

The sky was raining blood
Pouring down a fiery flood
The seventh seal came undone
All was quiet

No wars no rumors of war
No work and no clock ticking away
No taxes to pay

Silence fills the sky
And the lamb shall wipe every tear from their eyes

And there'll be no more cries
No more sadness
No more loneliness
