

On the screen tonight
Reflecting on the content of the words
Content to be suspended by the serious in the absurd
And equally let's sweat to see the silly in the serious
Volunteered subconscious twists
To front-seat the delirious
And crave the victory of human sentience above the roar
Of compliance and a vague defiance
Bred to raise the final score
Life's a competition just a text away from joining it
The subjugation game declares
The honours of spectatorship
Some twist the dial to find a smile
That doesn't boast of ownership
As other file the unbeguiled
As somehow missing out on it
Less inclined to see ourselves as part of what we come to see
A limbo staring at the hells of fame and anonymity
Then click from senses overstretched
To how the silence amplifies
A better places whose quality
Is something never advertised
Never advertised
Click click click click click click
Click click click click click click
Click click click click click!