

Agree To Disagree

Cobra Skulls

forgot the reason why we got into this and why we're bickering (what's the reasoning?) we're different but the same you call it a competition I call it a blame game (but we're both to blame) no matter what the problem is we just don't feel the same we cannot even agree to disagree on anything wish you would speak to me you wish that I would just learn to shut my mouth (you never learn to shut your mouth) we've got to figure this out we've got to find a way to find a common ground (before we run aground)

and I wonder how much farther we can go 1,000 miles away but pull over the van why do we fight for what we just don't understand?
can we be friends again?