

What Is Love

Colin Blunstone

Innocence can't live within a broken heart I know
But heaven knows
This flame will never die for I still love you so
It's not too late to learn from our mistakes
I promise you that I will do whatever it will take

Cause if love's not worth fighting for
It's not worth anything at all
Holding on
Can't be wrong
Whether we stand or fall
And all that I ask of you
Is help me to work this through
In the end
I could never ask for more
What is love
If it's not worth fighting for

You mean so much more to me than words could ever say
So I will show in everything I do my love is here to stay
And if I had to take my final breath
To prove to you my love is true
I would, with no regrets

If it's not worth dying for

And now you know
There's nothing more that I can give
The one reward I'm longing for
Is to hold you once again