Connie Smith

Strange I keep loving you why can't I forget
Strange I keep wanting you needing you and yet
You only bring heartaches strange but when you call
With open arms I take you back that's the strangest thing of al

Strange can't get over you oh I see you everywhere
Strange how your memory clings strange why I still care
But when I start forgetting you get lonely so you call
And with open arms I take you back that's the strangest thing of all

Strange how the shairs of laws so strange strange your same of all

Strange how the chains of love so strong strange your game of l ove oh so wrong

Why must I go on loving cry each time you call And with open arms always take you back that's the strangest thing of all
