

My First Country Song

Conway Twitty

I think that I just wrote my first country song
I've had this lonesome hurtin' feeling all night long
I didn't know I loved her and now she's gone
I think that I just wrote my first country song

I always like to hear those country singers sing
And the way they play those guitars boy they sure do make 'em ring
But when they sing the words I can never sing along I didn't believe things happen that way I thought our love was here to stay
'Till yesterday she walked away and now they're hittin' home

I think that I just wrote

I wrote some words about the good times that we had
And then some lines about losin' my mind or missin' you so bad
And I did leave out a thing about the way you done me wrong
And I sang my song to the saddest note that anybody ever wrote
And I think that I just wrote my first country song

I think that I just wrote
