She hugged his head so hard to her heart it made her gasp for air

If this was not the way Love felt then for love she did not care

I want to run beside a moving train yelling farewells in the rain

The tears will be bittersweet,

'cause I know I'll see him again

[Chorus]
If I lost you now,
I would feel as hollow as a bone

He could not help but hang his eyes her beauty held him so

If this was not a state of Grace then Grace he'd never know

I want to yell farewell from a crowded pier just me and a thousand good-byes
The tears will be bittersweet,
'cause soon she'll be back my side

[Chorus]

You won't lose me, he replied, together our lives have been sewn
If I lost you now,
I would feel as hollow as a bone
We will kiss goodnight under a starlit sky whisper oaths at a lumbering moon dream sweet dreams before the morning comes and serves us the dawn in our room

[Chorus]