Every Morning

Crash Test Dummies

I get up every morning I'm mean to everyone But you just you ignore me You seem think it's fun

And I need to get away And you need to get away from me And you see it's the right thing And that is why you're right for me

I watch the girly dancers Passing one by one I'll never have to meet them I have my dance and we're done

And I need to get away And you need to get away from me And you see it's the right thing And that is why you're right for me

I've got a book of special pictures I take a peek off and on When I'm alone in the morning I get my own thing going on

And I need to get away And you need to get away from me And you see it's the right thing And that is why you're right for me
