

Take You Home

Dan Seals

Another night, the man goes out
To find himself a friend
Walkin' down through smoky places
The search goes on again
He tries his best to tell himself
It's what he's lookin' for
But seeing only lonely faces
And needing so much more

So he goes on
And he will leave alone
Don't you get so tired sometimes?
You wish the one would come and take you home

Tonight's the night, the feeling's right
She's thinking as she goes
Will she find a friend or lover
And will she even know?
But later on, the feeling's gone
She looks into their eyes
How many times has she heard those lines
That all end with goodbye?

So she goes on
And she will leave alone
Don't you get so tired sometimes?
You wish the one would come and take you home

Hold on, mmm, all your dreams
Must believe that it does exist
But the harder you try, the harder you cry
That's the way that it always is

So if you don't give up on love
The best is yet to come
So hold on to those foolish dreams
Until you find the one to take you home

Mmm, hold on, all your dreams
Must believe that it does exist
But the harder you try, the harder you cry
That's the way that it always is

If you don't give up on love
The best is yet to come
So hold on to those foolish dreams
Until you find the one to take you home

Yeah, take you home
You got to find that one
Even though it's tough
( 'Cause true love is waiting for you)
Don't you give up, baby, no
( 'Cause true love is waiting for you)
You got to hold on, hold on
( 'Cause true love is waiting for you)
Hold on to those dreams, babe, baby, hold on

('Cause true love is waiting for you)
('Cause true love is waiting for you)
Rock on, rock on, rock on
('Cause true love is waiting for you)
('Cause true love is waiting for you)
