Rebel Spirits

Dark things Wander free Keepers of the mysteries Darkest brethren It falls on thee To still the breath Of your enemies A thousand miles A thousand seas I cross them all eternally A thousand eyes A thousand dreams I walk among them endlessly On the wings Of leather and rage I will fly In the face of their hate On the wings Of leather and rage I will have All the things that I crave Rebel spirits A call to thee On this the dawn Of your destiny Rebel blood Strong and free Will never bow to the heavenly On the wings Of leather and rage I will rise In the face of their hate On the wings Of leather and rage I will take All the things that I crave