

Escape with the Sun

Dark Suns

She's been quite happy in the sun
She would have liked to spend the whole day
Swimming in the palm lake of his hands

Tallest man
Now I need you in devotion
Carry me up to the world's Highest mountains
From upon your shoulders I will rise

Not a day went by without her wish to fly

Winter fell upon her, overnight
She gave a promise to the living
Before her words broke slowly from her lips

Tallest man
Now I need your feet in motion
Carry me up to the world's highest mountains
From out of the ashes I will rise

She caught a snowflake on her tongue
And crossed the line

Spread out across the sky and open wide
She tried to escape with the sun
Even aware of a downfall her flight goes on

Her flight goes on
