

That Is Why They All Hate You in Hell

Dark Suns

Wells were dry beside the door we came here in anticipation double feet
enormous speed unsettle my congratulation parody fills lungs for free a handshake for your armageddon flip a coin who pays the debts drink until the fear subsides you spell it wrong but read it right she's very coy 'bout her own age she trades in torn off human body parts kindly brave another slave declaiming loudly to the world I know my curse have crowns in my purse my flesh is weak I pay for every creep while the bitches talking high climb into (the) chariot
climb into (the) chariot
they might have seen my blood wells were dry beside the door
we came here in anticipation
double feet
enormous speed
bedevil my congratulation
parody fills lungs for free for now bid farewell armageddon before you go out pay the rest my harp that once its music shed me often through the arches led lies broken in the chariot's wreck my cape, the key, my god...
I've lost my head